Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer image file printout is deemed objectionable because it promotes and supports the exploitation of children and young persons for sexual purposes.

The printout is a composite image consisting of 25 individual photographs. The majority of the images depict young teenage girls in nude or semi-nude sexualised poses, with several displaying their genitals. Three images show men involving young boys and girls in sexual activity. The purpose of the composite image is to arouse adults with a sexual interest in children or young persons. The availability of this material is likely to encourage this sexual interest and strengthen the idea that young boys and girls may be used for adult sexual gratification. The effect is to encourage the sexual exploitation of children and young persons.

The classification of this publication interferes with the right to freedom of expression set out in the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. However, this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention and is a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression. The classification reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to protect its young and vulnerable members from sexual exploitation.
